Dr. Leo H. Baekeland

Dr. Leo H. Baekeland of Yonkers, N. Y., was in search of a synthetic for shellac when he found his beaker clogged with a gummy substance that would not dissolve or yield to heat. He recognized the substance as having properties for many uses. He patented it in 1909 and named it "bakelite." It is used in phone instruments, pencils and for scores of other purposes. The many factories for its production now employ tens of thousands of persons.

This Thing Called Juvenile Delinquency

by John H. Brigrman

Within the last few years the subject of Juvenile Delinquency has been discussed by everyone. From the jail to the court rooms where the child is sentenced, to the alleys and the poolrooms where the child begins the fall down the road to failure. But what has been done to prevent this fall . . . ? NOTHING!

The officers think their job is done when he makes the arrest and testifies in court. . . . The parents come screaming and shouting at the top of their voices that poor little Billie Boy couldn't have done a thing like that. . . . The lawyers are right at the heels of the parents trying to make enough off the case to make that payment on that ear with the $125.00 per month note. . . . The bond's men always hanging around trying to make a few bucks. . . . The judge who sits on his high bench and places the child in some institution for one or two years, maybe more, maybe less, it's according to how much money was put in the right place.

These people, all of them, think their job is done just because they go to church on Sunday and give a two dollar bill they didn't want anyway, but is their job really done? What was done to prevent this crime? NOTHING. I know you Big Shots with the big cigars and shiny shoes are going to point at the community houses, but stop and think a few minutes. . . . What good is a community house when poor little Billie Boy is sitting behind bars? Why did the community house let him commit this crime?

and Education. . . . An all white mob sought a white man for the slaying of a Negro in South Carolina. . . . A Negro being judged as "white", in (of all places) Mississippi. . . . Our Mayor, Martin H. Kennelly, stands his ground on segregation in city housing and protection for minority groups in moving into other communities. . . . Why shouldn't we appreciate the year of 1949 with the fond hope that 1950 will be equally as good or better. Remorse also entered our upward climb with the death of two kings: Albert Ammons, the king of "boogie woogie" and that never-to-be-forgotten star, Bill Robinson, king of the tapsters. This was indeed a great loss. The Dixiecrats out of the party and stuck cut his neck for equal rights. . . . Three Negro judges of Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati elected two representatives. . . . A colored man to be elected judge in South Carolina. . . . The U. S. Government acting to bring to justice the members of the Ku Klux Klan who subjected several Negroes to a lashing. . . . The Government refusing to spend any monies where there is any segregation or discrimination of any kind and passing a law barring segregation on transportation all over the United States. . . . A recorder of deeds of the United States. . . . Three Negro judges. . . . Colleges and fraternities to bar discrimination and segregation for the first time in history. . . . The Republican party and the Dixiecrats come out openly for a coalition. . . . Dr. Ralph Bunche as mediator. . . . Negroes appearing in Constitution Hall in Washington, D. C. . . . Mrs. Edith Sampson tours the world. . . . Nehru, of India visited the U. S. and blasted prejudice. . . . The Government turns down a housing plan because of segre-

WANTED! An Untrue Mother

The Southside is shocked over a tragedy—and that tragedy was only averted by a passerby, who heard a baby cry in an ash can in the rear of 5346 South Indiana Avenue. This girl baby alive and healthy was taken to St. Vincent Orphanage, where it must remain for six months. An Appeal has been made for the mother to come in and claim her baby. After all she is the mother. Most likely in her teens and having no responsibilities in life. The World asks this mother to make amends. Of course, we know that it is hard to forgive a mother who would leave a child in a cold world.
